

Women and Newborn Health Service

ABOUT US

The Women and Newborn Health Service (WNHS) provides health care for women and newborns in Western Australia.

WNHS is fully accredited under the Australian Council on Healthcare Standards (ACHS) and is an accredited Baby Friendly Health Initiative (BFHI) service.

WNHS follows the WA Health Code of Conduct which identifies the values that we collectively hold as fundamental in our work and describes how these values translate into action.

Vision

Excellence in health care of women and babies in Western Australia

Mission

Best Practice patient and consumer centred healthcare, leadership, education and research for women, babies and their families

Values (demonstrated by RESPECTFUL behaviours)

Responsible for our actions

Engaged in our work, our team, our organisation

Sincere in all our communications

Positive, with a 'can do' attitude

Embrace diversity and substantive equality

Collaborate and communicate openly and honestly - listen

Transparency in everything we do

Feel proud and celebrate successes

Utalise expertise and skills of the team

Lead by example

Government of Western Australia
Department of Health

WOMEN AND NEWBORN HEALTH SERVICE

